

New Developments Forecast In Zuta Books Inquiry

DOLLAR TRIAL IS FOLLOWED BY OFFICERS

"Lot of Men Will Be Leaving Town Soon," Investigator Roche Declares

Chicago—(P)—The statute of limitations arose today, a legal ogre to thwart attempts at prosecution on evidence found in the strong box of the slain gangster, Jack Zuta.

Included among the records of Zuta, the vice lord and gangland "master mind" who was dropped by assassin's bullets in a Delafield, Wis., resort two weeks ago, were papers involving prominent political figures of Chicago. None of the papers, however, was dated later than 1927, and most of them were much older.

"The statute of limitation in any of these cases is not more than three years," said State's Attorney Swanson "and that bars the grand jury from taking any action on evidence revealed in the box."

Chicago—(P)—The trial that Jack Zuta left behind was followed down new alleyways today.

Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, who with Charles F. Rathbun, special assistant state's attorney, found the slain gangster's deposit boxes, said important developments were expected.

Zuta, business director of the northside gang of George Moran and the Aiello Brothers, was slain at Delafield, Wis., two weeks ago as he red nickles into a mechanical piano.

"We are following the trial of Zuta's dollars and there is no telling where it will lead," Roche said. "A lot of men will be leaving town soon."

Roche today turned the investigation to a $500 campaign contribution to the "regular Republican organization" as shown on the accounts of Zuta, slain several weeks ago at a Wisconsin resort.

Another item found in Zuta's possessions was a membership card in the William Hale Thompson Republican club, signed by "Homer K. Galpin, chairman."

This, too, Roche said, was being carefully investigated.

In Zuta's balance sheet, items of $30,693.60 and $22,750.00 were shown paid out as "dividends" of "M. K. Roche said he had established "M. K." identity as Matt Kolb, ward politician.

Kolb, the investigators believed, was the "go-between" for Zuta and those with whom he had dealings.

Among the names already made public by Roche in the investigation of Zuta's papers are those of Municipal Judge Joseph Schulman, former Judge Emmanuel Eller and Attorney Louis J. Fisher. These names were found on checks in Zuta's boxes.

Names of the other public officials, Roche said, were expected from further investigation of Zuta's records.

DENIES ILLEGAL USE OF $500,000

Treasurer of Trailer Company at Edgerton Claims Charges Unfounded

Edgerton—(P)—The highway trailer company at Edgerton did not expend $500,000 illegally in connection with selling the city of Chicago 305 garbage wagon trailers as charged by Robert M. Telfer, Jr., private investigator, J. A. McIntosh, treasurer of the company, said today.

Telfer, entering suit against the Frunhauf Trailer company at Detroit for $100,000 for salary and expenses he said he incurred while investigating the business methods of the Badger firm for the Ohio company, alleged that the Edgerton company paid $500,000 to "various persons" to help along the deal with the city of Chicago.

"Such a charge is entirely untrue to the best of my knowledge," McIntosh said. "The only money expended was through legal sales agencies. The money was spent legally."

McIntosh said Telfer was a "former employee" of the Highway Trailer company and that his charges were not to be taken seriously.

Telfer said the money was paid through certain sales agencies which were not legitimate dealers, but which were simply means of covering up payments to the other persons. The trailers, bought from 1922 to 1928, cost Chicago, $1,485,775 or $1,535 each, the bill asserted, while the same type of trailer was sold to the city of Birmingham, Ala., for $857 each.

MARSHALL FIELD III AND MRS. COATS ARE MARRIED IN LONDON

Religious Ceremony Follows Civil Marriage—Simplicity Marks Rites

London—(P)—A religious ceremony marrying Marshall Field, III, grandson of the noted Chicago merchant, and Mrs. Dudley Coats, London society woman, was performed at the Church of St. Ethelburga the Virgin, here today.

The benedictory service, lasting exactly 15 minutes followed a few hours after the civil marriage for which the registry office at Marylebone had been opened earlier than usual. The service was unique for its simplicity in this city of gorgeous society weddings.

The bride, Mrs. Audrey Evelyn Coats, beautiful widow of Captain Dudley Coats, of the famous thread manufacturing family, chose the quaint old church in the heart of Roman London where Hendrick Hudson sought divine guidance before he set out upon his quest for uncharted lands.

The new Mrs. Field is generally thought to be one of the most beautiful women in British society. She has enjoyed the close friendship of the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Gloucester and Prince George and is a popular follower of the exclusive Pymley hounds.

The newly-married couple will leave tonight for the continent where they will spend their honeymoon, part of their journey being made by air. Mr. Field's own airplane was shipped from the United States for this purpose.

They will return to the United States in three or four months, there to make their permanent home, returning to England occasionally for hunting.

At the civil ceremony Mr. Field described himself, for the purpose of the official records, as the divorced husband of Evelyn Field, nee Marshall. He gave his age as 35 and that of his bride-to-be as 28.

Immediately after the civil ceremony Mr. Field drew the photographers away from his wife, leading them up a blind alley while Mrs. Field went away by another route.

The picture hunters had their inning after the religious service, when Mrs. Field held her husband's arm and made him pose with her in the doorway of the church before a battery of cameras.

The bride wore a sky-blueorgette afternoon frock and hat, with navy-blue suede shoes.

Mrs. Field was described in the press at her previous wedding which was one of the leading social events of 1922, as "the bride of 500 presents," which included gifts from the royal family.

Fame Of Hitchcock Horses Grew From Family's Needs

Fame of Thomas Hitchcock, sr., as a horseman grew from demands of his family for good mounts, he says. He is shown taking a jump on Belphegor. Thomas, jr. (right), is an international polo star.

Chicago (AP)—Demands of his family for good mounts is given by Thomas Hitchcock, famous veteran polo star, trainer, and breeder of fine saddle horses, as the reason for his fame as a horseman.

Hitchcock was member of the first international polo team when it was organized 44 years ago to defend the American title against Great Britain.

His son, Thomas, jr., is now a star of the international team and the only 19-goal polo player in America today.

Mrs. Hitchcock has also played polo and is renowned as a steeple-chase racer and hunter. She has been riding for more than 40 years.

"My wife, children, and grand-children are all riders," says the veteran Hitchcock, "and they looked to me to provide horses that were safe, fast, and pleasant to ride. So I have had to evolve the methods I am using."

Good thoroughbreds can be raised anywhere, he believes, provided they are given adequate exercise and proper feed.

Burglars Break Into Two Gas Filling Stations In City

$600 IN CASH STOLEN; SAFE CARRIED AWAY

Total Loss Estimated at Approximately $1,000 Proprietors Report

Thieves broke into two service stations in Appleton early Monday morning and got away with about $600.

One place entered was the Firestone Tire store corner of N. Richmond and W. College-ave, of which J. M. Macauley is manager. Here the combination and handle were knocked off the safe door and its contents, estimated at between $250 and $300, were taken. Whether any stock in the store was taken is not known.

The other station entered was the Wadham filling station at the corner of S. Memorial-ave and W. College-ave. The safe could not be opened, so it was carried away. The contents were estimated to be about $700, of which about 300 was in cash, $50 in coupon books, and the remainder in checks.

Both robberies were discovered about 6 o'clock Monday morning by employees when they came to work. There were nothing amiss at either place at 4 o'clock in the morning when patrolmen tried the doors. The fact that the thieves handled their jobs with rapidity and dispatch and without drawing attention of the railroad crossing watchman, is puzzling police.

The only clue left by the thieves were tire imprints near the Wadham building. Sergeant Detective Matthew McGinnis is working on the case.

Herbert M. Bierce of Winona, Minn., secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Referees in Bankruptcy which opened its annual conference today, reports bankruptcy on the wane.

Petitions are increasing in number in the cities, he said, but most of these involve small business. Comparatively few large concerns have failed recently. In the country districts, the number of bankruptcy petitions is rapidly decreasing, he said.

INDUSTRY NEEDS FARM PROSPERITY, KOHLER POINTS OUT

Governor's Candidacy for Reelection Takes Him All Over State

Madison.—(P)—Gov. Walter Kohler's speaking itinerary for reelection took him the width of the state yesterday.

Traveling by airplane, the governor stopped for speeches at Beaver Dam and Arcadia in the western part of the state and Beaver Dam, St. Cloud and West Allis, the latter city on the eastern shore.

"The prosperity of Wisconsin industry and of all who derive their livelihood from it can be fully realized only as our farmers also prosper," the governor said in his Beaver Dam speech.

Further developing the same theme at St. Cloud, the governor pointed to the reciprocal benefits enjoyed by the farmers and the industrial city populations as illustrated in Fond du Lac and Sheboygan and in the various counties of the Fox river valley and the lake shore.

Speaking at Beaver Dam, Governor Kohler said support should be given to increased activities on the part of the conservation commission.

"Tourists traveling by automobile are estimated to have spent over $135,000,000 in Wisconsin last year," the governor said, "while the total money left in the state by visitors, including those who came by train or other means of travel, was undoubtedly much larger. This represents a major business decidedly worth developing, and the benefit is confined to no one section of the state."

Wisconsin must devise and adopt means of increasing the supply of fish and game, and it is essential that effective measures be taken for propagating, distributing, and protecting fish, and for a state-wide game program including adequate provision for refuges.

"A significant step in conservation was recently taken when I signed contracts for the construction of a dam to retain the water level in the Moricon marsh, insuring its permanence as a refuge for wild life."

At an evening meeting at West Allis Governor Kohler's talk to the members of the Polish National Alliance dealt largely with problems of industry and unemployment.

"Unemployment resulting from the displacement of men through the growing use of modern machinery presents a serious question, which is not only of the moment but is of a long range character," the governor stated. "The solution must come through serious and careful study of all the factors involved, and it was for this reason that I appointed a citizens' committee, broadly inclusive in membership, to study all the factors and to propose such measures as will best serve the interests of all the people of Wisconsin."

Intervention Discussed At Politics Institute

Williamstown, Mass.—(P)—Prof. Jesse S. Reeves of the University of Michigan, told the institute of politics today that participation by the United States in a conference on the doctrine of "non-intervention" in Latin-American countries would be a "source of danger" unless there was a full agreement on the scope and meaning of the term.

Speaking before the convention on the legal aspects of intervention in Latin-America, Professor Reeves predicted there would be a demand for Latin-American nations for codification of international law on intervention.

"By agreeing with the doctrine of non-intervention," he said, "the United States will be able to ally the suspicion of Latin-American states toward us. With the Mexican and Latin matters settled, it may be possible in 1933, when the seventh Pan-American conference convenes in Montevideo, to show by our staying out of Latin-American countries that we are not intervening."

"If we are to codify international law and attempt to codify some of these so-called fundamental rights of states, we cannot avoid accepting non-intervention as a doctrine."

"No one would concede for a moment that the United States would ever permit another nation to interfere in its domestic affairs, and if we agree to establishment of our international relations upon a firm judicial basis, we must recognize the implications of mutuality which this involves."

Dr. H. Foster Bain, speaking in the round table discussion on recent European economic progress, declared "the existing bad condition" of the mineral production industries of Europe presents a problem that is dependent for solution upon "the will to do and the unwillingness to cooperate."

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Kruger, loyal the latter of daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kromer. Lave left the hospital, as have the two Kromer children. They were at riding in the Kruger car near Milwaukee when the accident happened.

City Officials Again Win Title In Softball

For 254 days of the year city hall officials and street department workers debate their strength, their athletic prowess and their value to the city of Appleton and none can renege or naye their contentions—for there is no proof. But on the 365th day annually the question is settled, and the city officials again win the title in the street department picnic.

As a result of Saturday's picnic at Stroeb's Island city hall officials are on Mount Olympus until the memory of the baseball score becomes dim in the minds of those who witnessed the battle of the bases that ended with city hall officials on the long end of a 17-7 score. Batteries for the street department team were Alderman Walter Gmeiner and Theodore Albrecht, street commissioner and Alderman H. G. Kiltner. Carl Becker, city clerk, captained the victors and Mr. Albrecht, the street department team, John Nielsen of Kaukauna, county supervisor, umpired. Alderman C. J. Wassenberg was the star man on the winning team. It was reported that the city officials' victory was especially meritorious in view of the antics of Alderman Richard Groth, whose sense of humor brought on such convulsions of laughter he could neither run nor win when the occasion demanded.

“There Is Nothing Finer than a Stromberg-Carlson”

WHY is it that radio merit cannot anywhere become a topic of conversation without mentioning the Stromberg-Carlson? Whether or not they own one, those who know radio regard Stromberg-Carlson as something built to a public service standard rather than produced for commercial competition. They credit Stromberg-Carlson with a shade greater thoroughness in engineering conception, in choice of material, and in skillful assembling. All of which sum up as general superiority.

The greater satisfaction enjoyed by Stromberg-Carlson owners must have created this widespread reputation. It is true a Stromberg-Carlson costs a little more—but it gives so much more, not only in quality of tone, but in years of service, that in the long run, it is the cheapest radio to buy.

DROUGHT DAMAGE OVER-ESTIMATED, SAYS WALL STREET

Corn Crop Smaller, but Wheat Crop Is Larger, Experts Believe

BY PRESTON S. KRECKER
Copyright, 1933, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York (CFA)—Conservative opinion in Wall Street Thursday as distinguished from professional speculative pessimism on the stock exchange, is that the damage done to the crops by drought has been exaggerated and that the economic effects at the worst will be an offset, with the good balancing the ill, while there is at least a chance that the farmer will come out on the long end.

The facts in the situation seem to be that the corn crop has suffered severe injury and will be materially smaller than it was last year, but that the wheat crop will exceed the yield of 1929. That is far better than it was the other way and wheat was short while corn was a full crop. Statistics show that wheat is the money crop of the farmer while corn is his feed crop. That is to say, the farmer sells his wheat while 75 per cent of all the corn grown never leaves the district in which it is produced. It is fed to livestock.

IS LIVESTOCK PROBLEM
The latest estimates are that 40 per cent of all the corn grown in the United States, is fed to the hogs, on the farm, 20 per cent is fed to horses and mules and 15 per cent is fed to cattle.

The crop damage this year then, viewed in its broader outlines, constitutes a livestock problem. That would be a serious situation were there an actual famine in livestock foods. As a matter of fact, there is no such shortage. The wheat surplus takes or can take care of that end of the problem. It was only a few weeks ago that disposition of wheat surplus constituted an apparently insoluble conundrum. It was gravely suggested that we ship our wheat surplus to China and feed it to the starving millions there as a means of disposing of the excess supply without destroying it outright. Nothing is heard today of free wheat for Chinese because our wheat surplus promises to be a far lessened one.

One of the biggest railroad executives in the country remarked today that the wheat surplus problem has vanished overnight. In fact, if there is anything to worry about, it is whether there will be sufficient surplus wheat to fill the void created by the shortage of corn.

GRAIN PRICES RISE
Offsetting the crop damage is the rise in prices of grain which the agricultural industry will receive on its enormous carry-over as well as on its new crops. The extent to which the revaluation of the huge carry-over of wheat from last year will ameliorate the hurt done to farmers pocketbooks by the loss in this year's crops is of course problematical. Statistical records may assist in reaching a common sense conclusion.

There have been three notable crop shortages, on which records are available. They came in 1894, in 1921. The agricultural department is authority for the calculation that in 1894, when production was reduced 21 per cent, the total value of the crops was diminished by but 4.3 per cent. In 1921, when production was impaired 33 per cent, the total money value of the crop actually increased 9 per cent. In 1921, when a shrinkage of 24 per cent occurred in production, the market value of the total crop increased 23 per cent.

Corn today is worth more than it was a year ago but wheat still has lost ground to recover, as a result of its severe deflation before the drought. Yet it well may be questioned whether the grain markets have fully discounted the changed economic conditions caused by virtual elimination of the surplus problem.

The extent to which corporate earnings will be affected is difficult to analyze since the farmers loss is an uncertain quantity. One thing is certain, the railroads are better off than if the wheat crop had been a failure for, as already indicated, wheat is the grain that is marketed at points distant from where it is produced and the railroads do the hauling.

Piquant Irish Nose Aids Coleen To Talkie Fame

Hollywood, Cal.—(P)—Against the tilt of a woman's nose, a revolution in industry is nothing.

Less than a year ago, Broadway still was moving to Hollywood because the movies had started talking. And Maureen O'Sullivan was an obscure little Irish girl—in Ireland.

The screen had reached the peak of its transition from silent to articulate acting. Producers were in a whirl, including Frank Borzage, director.

Besides working to make the talkies speak for themselves more effectively, Borzage was in Ireland directing scenes for John McCormack's first picture.

Then he saw Maureen O'Sullivan's profile. And despite all the changes the movies were undergoing and all his other worries, he signed her to a contract to appear in the McCormack and other films.

The result is a record for Maureen—the quickest rise, it is held, of any girl without previous training from an absolute "unknown" to featured player.

Maureen was living, 10 months ago, in Killiney, 6,100 miles from Hollywood. Just past 20, she spent her life riding with her parents in a small imported car and going to Dublin, 11 miles away, to shop—or

HOLLYWOOD COPS FIGHT JAYWALKERS

They've Overlooked It for a Long Time, but Those Days Are Gone

BY JESSIE HENDERSON

Hollywood—(CFA)—One of the summer-time pleasures in the cinema capital at present is trying to pay a walk without being the traffic cop see you. Many of the blocks are very long, the temptation to dart across in the middle of them is very great. It now costs you $2.

In the great big city of Los Angeles, the police habitually send you back to the curb if you try to cross against the traffic lights. But in the smaller and less conventional section known as Hollywood, people have been accustomed to cross when, as it, and where they may.

Of course the traffic rules of Los Angeles apply also to Beverly Hills, which is practically a part of the city. The police are very strict. But Beverly Hills is full of a different kind of jaywalkers. Even the warnings were so infrequent that most of Hollywood forgot the ordinance which makes jaywalking a misdemeanor.

They recalled it Saturday, however. A certain traffic cop who, by the way, once gave six tickets within 24 hours to a certain woman motorist who neatly turned the tables by subsequently marrying him, spied a young girl skipping across the boulevard while the stop sign still glowed an angry red.

The officer blew his whistle. The young girl, evidently not dreaming that the whistle was for herself, went gaily on.

The cop gave chase while waiting motorists honked, applauded, and cheered. He chased the miscreant for an entire block, she walking rapidly in serene unconsciousness of the furore, he finally catching up to a brisk trot. When he caught her at the corner, he bravely handed the girl a ticket, "It cost you $2, maybe more," he was heard to remark.

Obviously astounded and indignant, the girl surveyed the massed motes, hilarious, honking, and then the perspiring cop. Whereupon she laughed right at him and answered: "Thanks, it's worth it."

All the same, Hollywood has begun to watch its step.

TRACY CONVALESCES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

THE ROBOT SINGS OF LOVE

THE ROBOT (singing): "O, soul of my soul, I love thee—"

BUT the Robot has no soul. And having no soul it cannot love. Small wonder the lady spurns its suit.

Now, if the Robot cuts a ridiculous figure beneath a lady's balcony, why expect it to thrill intelligent theatre goers in the character of Canned Music?

Music is an emotional art. By means of it feeling may be translated into all tongues. The Robot, having no capacity for feeling, cannot produce music in a true sense.

JOSEPH N. WEBER, President, 1440 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Up to the sudden frenzied moment of her discovery, Maureen had no desire or immediate hope of becoming a talkie actress. She took the test offered by Borzage on a dare of friends. Then came to America.

Following McCormack's "Song O' My Heart" she was with Will Rogers in "So This Is London," and now has a part in "Just Imagine."

They say here she's proving quite useful in that revolution in the movies which her nose helped bring about.

FEW go through life without BORROWING

PEOPLE always have, and always will, turn to their fellowmen for help in emergencies. Business firms and some individuals can borrow from banks by putting up stocks, bonds, or real estate for security. Millions of good people without banking facilities do not realize that they can now obtain $100 to $300 without the embarrassment of asking friends for the money.

Because of the hardships imposed upon the average family by its inability to borrow, the Household Plan was developed. Under it, most any family keeping house can make a loan of $100 to $300 with the same privacy afforded by a bank.

If you need extra funds to pay up some scattered bills; buy some of the things you've wanted, such as clothing or household supplies; perhaps, pay for necessary medical attention; or meet any of the other demands of everyday life—don't hesitate to come to Household for the money.

Arrangements can be made whereby you repay your loan on a budget plan, extending for as long as a year and eight months. Only husband and wife need sign. No other signatures or endorsements are required, and no inquiries are made among your friends, relatives or employer. Household's rate is the lowest rate possible, consistent with the service we render—it is nearly one-third lower than the maximum lawful rate.

You will find Household Managers to be friendly, courteous advisers in all home financial problems. The experience gained in rendering family financial service for the past fifty-two years is back of these men. They will be glad to give you the benefit of this accumulated experience as well as their own training in arranging a budget plan to suit your needs.

In this community "Household" makes loans of less than $100 at a slightly higher rate than the rate on loans of $100 to $300.

New York (CFA)—Paris is turning out its velvet hats for early autumn. One is of black transparent velvet, an afternoon costume, with a train ten inches long. The lines are plain and straight. Tight fitting sleeves are a feature, and the accessories are a small black velvet hat and silver fox fur.

PASTEL PRETTIES
For the pastel summer frocks, there is pastel jewelry. These necklaces, bracelets, and earrings of pink or green quartz, carved pale amber and white or green jade are among the most refreshing ideas of the moment. Set in silver, they have a look of coolness on the hottest days, as well as an off gleam vastly flattering to most complexions.

THAT HEMLINE
In Hollywood there isn't any hemline dispute. The majority of stars ordering their autumn clothes, are having sports skirts stop 12 inches from the floor, other daytime skirts are from two to six inches longer, and evening gowns are at least an inch longer, sometimes with trains.

HUBER'S TIRADE

Lieut. Gov. Huber waxed eloquent on his "vindication" of the charges of violating the corrupt practices act. He makes it the occasion for a vicious attack upon Gov. Kohler, asserting that "the attempt of the Kohler administration and its stool pigeons has collapsed. * * * This whole spectacle is but another illustration of how the governor of the state, animated by spite, has made a travesty out of a great public office."

Here we have a typically demagogic tirade of politicians in the habit of styling themselves "progressives." Gov. Kohler is not responsible for the charges made against Mr. Hoover. He is not responsible for anything connected with the Progressive campaign of 1928, or the commendable efforts to bring its transactions out into daylight. He has performed only those functions of office that the constitution and laws impose upon him. He has not attempted to judge Mr. Huber or his associates in any way. If there was a frame-up by any persons against Mr. Huber the same thing with greater emphasis may be said of the persecution to which Gov. Kohler himself has been subjected.

Mr. Huber's comments are uttered for the purpose of drawing public sympathy and getting votes. The whole program of campaign in which he and his associates engage is one of abuse and attack. There is nothing constructive in it whatsoever. The truth is that the Progressive candidates of 1928 have plenty to explain and apologize for if all the facts could be brought out.

MORE AIR WONDERS

The wonders of the air continue. Last week the British dirigible R-100 crossed the Atlantic eastbound in record time and Capt. Frank M. Hawks followed his record-breaking east-to-west flight across the continent by returning also in record time. He lowered the mark set by Col. Lindbergh by two hours and 20 minutes. He flew from Los Angeles to Long Island in the astonishing time of 12 hours 25 minutes and three seconds. His actual flying time, taking out three station stops, was 11 hours 40 minutes 30 seconds. The air line between the two points is 2,510 miles, and the course flown would be somewhat longer. Using the figure given, Hawks averaged about 215 miles an hour. At times he flew 250 miles an hour and never was below 200. Such speed has never before been sustained in a long distance flight. At Hawks' rate one would fly from Green Bay to Chicago in 50 minutes.

While the two events referred to above were taking place, Jackson and O'Brien were breaking the world's record in their sensational endurance flight at St. Louis. They were in the air 647 hours, exceeding the record by 93 hours. They have demonstrated that a motor can be kept going for a month under a heavy load under circumstances permitting very little attention other than oiling and refueling. Speed of 250 miles per hour and promised speed of from 400 to 500 miles per hour, sustained flying for more than a month, crossing the Atlantic in 56 hours by dirigible—all these achievements which today hold the attention and applause of the world will in due time become commonplace and we will look back on our adjectives of today with a smile. They open up a vista of feats and performances of the future almost beyond belief.

AS OTHERS SEE US

Over in India, the British officials are objecting to American movies. They are blaming the length of our kisses, the meandering love of our theme-songs, and the way in which our heroes and heroines of the silver screen do a grand fade-out to live happily ever after, for the fact that there is discontent in India.

Just what all of this has got to do with Gandhi's desire to make salt from the sea water is rather a problem. Just how the fact that somebody's love story ended with wedding bells should encourage an uprising in Calcutta or any other eastern city we do not know.

It would rather seem that this objection is a compliment to American life as shown on the screen. Life in India, as the last few years have revealed, is certainly not gliding along like a story in a book of fairy tales. It is unhappy, struggling, uncertain.

Life as shown by our films, for the most part, manages to give people a little happiness for their money.

If the people of India have decided that we must be a land of happiness which they would like to follow, and think that uprisings will bring them the joy on which theme-songs are based, it is not our fault. We can send only the type of guiding star that we know. And if it is a happy one that makes other nations tremble because it will cause their people to envy us, we admit that it is a good advertisement for America, anyway.

WHY TRADE FELL OFF

Foreign trade of the United States in July was the lowest in five years. Both exports and imports showed a heavy decrease. By a coincidence the reduction in each was approximately $134,000,000, compared with July of last year. The decline in trade is attributed by the department of commerce to worldwide business depression and also to the fact that American loans abroad showed a considerable reduction last year prior to the stock market crash in November. It is predicted that our exports will increase in value the coming month on the theory that because American investors have been purchasing foreign bonds in larger quantities there will be more money abroad to sustain commodity buying.

While we trust the optimism of the government is well founded, we think it has not taken into account sufficiently the effects of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act. That, in our opinion, in conjunction with the slump in world business, is responsible for the pronounced falling off in foreign trade. The new tariff law engendered strong protests from all of the nations with which we deal. It caused much prejudice against the United States and in some instances actual and threatened reprisals.

Naturally the administration does not like to admit that its tariff policy is responsible for an unfavorable position in foreign trade. Fall elections are near at hand and the fact that foreign commerce plays a considerable part in American prosperity makes it important from the political standpoint to disclaim responsibility at Washington for its decline. The next six or twelve months will furnish the real test of the effects of recent tariff legislation.

MIGHT TRY ENFORCEMENT

Rep. LaGuardia of New York demands a showdown on prohibition enforcement. He is one of the leading wets of congress. He suggests that the department of justice be given every facility for a strong enforcement drive in a "last attempt" to uphold the law. He adds that if it fails there should be frank admission of the fact and a fair statement of the situation by the next regular session of congress.

The dries will of course refuse to concede that a year of genuine effort to enforce the law can adequately or finally determine the merits of prohibition. That would be true had there been good faith from the beginning. For ten years there has been nothing but evasion, bad faith and corruption in enforcement. The reputation of the eighteenth amendment, whatever it may have been at the start, has been sadly wrecked by the record. Few of the millions who are disgusted at the performances of the government and its ally, the Anti-Saloon league, believe its reputation can be materially improved. It seems to be a hopeless mess.

There can be no objection to Rep. LaGuardia's appeal for a period of honest and strict enforcement. If the administration has respect for the eighteenth amendment it can elect no other course. If it has no respect it ought to admit it. A year of real attempt at enforcement might reveal something of value towards reaching a final judgment, that is, a judgment that would lead to definite action.

VIRGINIA DARE'S BIRTH

On Aug. 18, 1587, Virginia Dare, the first child born in America of English parents, was born on Roanoke Island, Va., now a part of North Carolina.

Sir Walter Raleigh was trying to found a colony in this region which he called Virginia in honor of Queen Elizabeth, the Virgin Queen. The new baby, therefore, was named for the country. She was the granddaughter of John White, who was sent out by Raleigh as governor of the Roanoke colony.

Two days after her birth she was baptized "according to the rites of the Church of England." This was the first celebration of the rite of Christian baptism of a North American born white child.

Before Virginia was three years old, the colony disappeared, and no one knows to this day what became of it. The "Lost Colony of Roanoke" is regarded as one of the mysteries of history. One legend is that the colonists intermarried with the Indians and are the ancestors of the present band of Croatan Indians living in the southern part of North Carolina, who number about 600.

William Strachey, on the other hand, writing in 1613, states "the men, women and children of the first plantation of Roanoke were killed by practice and commandment of Powhattan."

A WARNING TO PROF. LUCIFER G. BUTTS

There is nothing sinister about this warning, for I like Professor Butts as well as I do Uncle Henry, Mr. Editor or that girl who is always getting into the jam and emerging with no trace of jam on her. I just want to tell the professor to look out for Dr. Paul E. Brooks, deputy commissioner, New York state department of health. It looks very much to me as though this deputy health commissioner is going to bump off the beloved professor and take over the job. Let me tell you why I think so.

Wednesday, May 7, a radio talk by this professor—I mean Doctor Brooks was broadcast from station WQV, in the course of which the resourceful professor—I mean doctor, said:

"By the time we have grown up (if we ever have) most of us have become convinced at least of the desirability of keeping our hands and finger nails as free from visible dirt as possible. But how many ever stop to think that most of the visible dirt is more or less harmless and that the really dangerous dirt is that which is not apparent to the naked eye?"

"Let's see how this works out. One of your friends had a 'sniffly' cold. You happened along, he put his wet handkerchief in his pocket and shook hands with you. Then, without washing your hands, you ate lunch. A little later you, too, had a cold. Now it is at least a fair possibility that it was the 'invisible' but germ-laden dirt on your hands that was responsible."

I confess that Professor Butts in his very best form could hardly devise a more complicated way of conveying infection from one person to another, and if this deputy health commissioner keeps on, the professor had better look to his laurels.

Washing the hands is a very good habit for everybody to have, especially the kids, and particularly before taking food, drinking or a chew of gum or tobacco. One thing we KNOW this dirt prevents is infection by certain intestinal parasites, the eggs of which have been found on the fingers and under the finger nails. We believe but do not know, I think, that certain other diseases may be contracted via soiled hands which consciously or unconsciously carry the germs into one's mouth. There is precious little reason to imagine, however, that the common respiratory infections are conveyed in that way. Of course nobody knows what New York state's deputy health commissioner means by a "cold"—I am fairly certain he will never attempt to tell us just what he means.

When you approach a guy who pretends or insists he has just a "sniffly cold," for all you know you are entering a barrage. Even if the sufferer with the alleged "cold" has the innate decency not to cough or sneeze upon you, if he is an average untutored citizen he will probably chat with you while shaking hands, and there you are, within the conversational spray range, and probably pepped up with whatever your friend happens to have in his beer.

I imagine the ingenious Dr. Brooks and all the other deputies, chiefs or executives of the New York health department have heard of this conversational spray before, but they're not acknowledging it yet, although they do acknowledge the dangers of the spray of open-face coughing and open-face sneezing even to the extent of issuing occasional half-hearted warnings about it. Wait ten or twenty years, though, and the then health authorities will be broadcasting educational talks about the hazard of conversational spray.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

What to Do For Snake Bite.

Kindly inform me what to do in case of snake bite. I am going on my vacation in country infested with rattlesnakes. (Mrs. W. H. A.)

Answer—Always wear high laced shoes of leathers—canvases or leather.

up to the middle of calf or higher. Rattle snakes usually cannot strike higher. The best emergency treatment is a hypodermic injection of anti-venom, which you should carry in you kit. Any druggist can supply this for you. The directions on the package will enable you to administer the injection. The anti-venom is produced by the Anti-Venom Institute of North America, at Glenolden, Pa., under supervision of Dr. du Amaral, famous authority on venomous snake bites, from Sao Paulo, Brazil. If the anti-venom is not available, the next best emergency treatment is (a) crisscross incisions of the skin at the mark of the fangs, to induce free bleeding; (b) application to the wound or by hypodermic injection around it, or a wine-colored solution of permanganate of potash in water; (c) tourniquet around limb several inches above wound, twisted tight enough to retard, but not to stop circulation. Loosen the tourniquet for a minute every 10 minutes. Dr. du Amaral advises it is better not to apply a tourniquet if one has the anti-venom at hand, because it would prevent or retard systemic absorption of the antidote. Never give a person suffering from venomous snake bite any alcohol. Only stimulants should be given—hot coffee, tea, atropin, strychnin, or matico spirits of ammonia, adrenalin. (Copyright John F. ## The Tynmites

By Hal Cochran

A T last the pilot said, "Hop in, you Tynmites, and we'll begin a very thrilling flight across a stretch of land and sea. Right in the cabin take a seat and you'll be set for quite a treat. Perhaps I'll let you take turns and sit up front with me."

A scramble followed very quickly and Clowry shouted, "This is sick. The plane has dandy windows and we all can look right out. We don't know where we're bound for yet, but it's a pretty place. I'll bet it's really fun when we don't know what this ride's all about."

The big propeller then buzzed "round and soon the plane swept off the ground. Of course the Tynmites were thrilled to ride upon the air. The Travel Man said, Gaze below and see how fast this plane can go. The spot were bound for far away, but we will soon be there. It wasn't long till land was swept right out of sight. The big plane kept right on across the water which seemed miles and miles away. The bunch kept quiet as could be, just looking out so they could see. Said Scouty, "This is sure a wondrous way to spend the day."

The Travel Man looked down and then he said, "We've come to land again." And then the plane began to drop. It soon was on the ground. "Hop out," he cried. "Our trip is over. We're going to see some sights once more." The Tynmites all jumped at once and landed with a bound.

They hid the flying man's goodbye. Then climbed a hill that led to high above a sprawling city. All the times "Hello," said the Travel Man, realized that they were very much surprised. Said he, "That's where we're bound for. That is Athens down below."

The Tynmites start their journey through Athens in the next story.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Wealth, the philosophers tell us, will not buy everything.

Some of New York's 50,000 millionaires, therefore, probably are subject to such human feelings as, for instance, envy.

There is, in this connection, the story of a certain capitalist and one of his executives.

Years ago when the capitalist was a young manufacturer in Chicago, having the foundation for his present fortune, his life was fairly complete except for one thing.

So busy had he been working himself up in the world that he had not had time to develop a taste in clothes.

Born without an inherent sense of what to wear, he was conscious after the establishment of his success of his inability to dress the part. He could not pick the right apparel.

DRESS COMPLEX

Perhaps there was a yearning to be known, not as a captain of industry, but as a best-dressed man. Perhaps he would have added some of his business acumen to a knowledge of how to gratify what obviously was merely vanity.

Anyway, there was in Chicago a man who was his envy and his admiration. This fellow, a salesman, was not especially well-to-do, nor did he have the usual qualities of business success.

He was, as acquaintances recall, a rather half-fellow-well-met who did know how to clothe himself in the height of fashion.

He wore the garments of the current fashion plates and wore them well, with a grace that was the longing of the manufacturer.

The latter eventually took to copying the clothes of the salesman. When the model appeared in a new suit, his imitator would have a tailor adapt the cut and pattern to his own more solid, less handsome figure.

Then the manufacturer retired from active management and came to New York, or rather was brought here by his wife, who had greater social aspirations for herself and her children. By that time, he had a valet whom he could trust to select wardrobes befitting his position in the world.

GRATITUDE

Still he never quite forgot the swell dresser of his Chicago days. It was years later before he met a mutual friend from the old home town. Yet he inquired what had become of the salesman and learned that he had not done so well.

In fact, he was out of a job, although still trying to preserve the dapper appearance of his gayer days.

The manufacturer thereupon telegraphed the ex-salesman an offer of a position as vice-president of one of the corporations he still controlled.

The clothes-model promptly accepted. He probably thought that at last his talents had been recognized. But in his case, the clothes made the man. The grateful benefactor, realizing how he and his family had been accepted in high society may have thought that in this instance they made two men.

upon future builders to make their roofs not only rainproof, but fool-proof as well.

It isn't the heat, it's the aridity.

A West Virginia coal operator has urged the president to suspend radio broadcasting because in his belief it has caused the drought. To be sure, the programs have been rather dry of late.

Talking picture equipment is to be installed soon on 200 of the navy's ships. Will it be proper to say now when sailors leave port, that they're going out to sea?

The Connecticut farmer who traded 75 acres of land for a radio set is thought to have done it to tune on this farm relief program he's heard so much about.

In South America, a scientist says, there is a fly that can travel 800 miles an hour. In New Jersey there is a flyer who may go after the record.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—In his spacious office in the capitol the other day, Tyler Page, clerk of the house of representatives, who has been in the service of that body for almost half a century, twirled the dial combination on his big safe.

When the steel door opened, he reached in and brought forth a package of papers—some with age. Long had he promised me the opportunity of looking at these papers, some of which, he said, should be read by every American.

In that package were original holograph letters written by George Washington and other famous men. They were addressed to Col. Robert Hanson Harrison, aide-camp on Washington's staff, and had been placed in the file of the house of representatives by Harrison's heirs in support of a Revolutionary claim. Generally speaking, little is known of these documents. Resurrected from the files of the house, although catalogued in the Library of Congress, they are constructively in possession of the house.

FOUND BY CHANCE

Their discovery resulted from Page's love for history and his habit of periodically going on what he describes as "voyages of discovery" in the house file room.

Years ago, when he was an assistant file clerk in the house, Page's sheer accident ran across the prized collection of documents. He remembers vividly the excitement occasioned by his discovery, and of how his immediate superior in the file room, when first shown the letters, ordered all doors locked and sat down and cried like a baby.

On this morning, as we rummaged through the collection, letter after letter, in Washington's own handwriting were handed us for inspection.

There was one which was particularly interesting. It was dated at Mount Vernon, November 18, 1781, and was directed to Col. Harrison. It dealt with the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown.

EXCERPTS

"I thank you for your kind congratulations on the capitulation of Cornwallis," Washington wrote his aide-camp, " . . . but if it should be the means of relaxation and sink us into supineness and security it had better not have happened—"

" . . . One thing we are sure of and that is, that the only certain way to obtain peace is to be prepared for war."

And there were others, just as interesting, just as historically valuable.

One, commended his aide-camp to make sure that some soldiers afflicted with small pox were given adequate care. Page recalled that Washington himself suffered from this malady, thus explaining his interest in this incident.

GRAPE INDUSTRY READY TO DISPOSE OF HEAVY SURPLUS

Awaits Word from Washington Before Starting New Program

BY BEN G. KLINE
Copyright, 1930, By Cons. Press
San Francisco. (CPA)—The California grape industry is awaiting definite word from Washington that will permit it to start immediately on a program designed to rid the industry of a considerable portion of its surplus production and make it possible for every home in the country that desires to have, inexpensively and with expert supervision, five or ten gallons of homemade wine. The program when and if it is set in motion will have both the permission and the financial support of the federal government.

The grape industry has just been organized into a complex cooperative set-up in accordance with plans formulated by the federal farm board, which will advance over $20,000,000 for the marketing of this season's crop. The heart of the marketing plan is control of the surplus, estimated this season at around 70,000 tons. Keeping this surplus out of the fresh fruit and raisin markets is expected to safely secure government bank loans to the industry and to maintain prices at a level high enough to assure profits to growers.

WON'T PICK ALL
A portion of this big surplus will probably remain on the vines, growers being paid for unharvested fruit from a fund built up by an industry tax on marketed grapes and raisins. As much as possible of the surplus will be marketed in some other form.

The principal agency for handling the harvested surplus is Fruit Industries, Inc., formed by the merger of eight big grape products manufacturing firms with plants scattered over California and in Chicago and New York states. These plants have been pledged to the farm board as security for a $1,000,000 loan, already advanced and used for adding to or rebuilding plant equipment.

Another half million dollars is to be advanced to the corporation against warehouse receipts as the season advances.

The principal product these plants are equipped to manufacture, and the principal product the management of Fruit Industries, Inc. intends to manufacture, is grape concentrate.

The concentrate is a pasteurized fresh grape juice, condensed to one-fourth its normal volume, which is to be put up in 34 containers of about a gallon each, labeled as to type of juice, and sold to householders throughout the nation for the manufacture of wine in the home for home consumption. The plants are equipped to handle about 200,000 tons of grapes this season.

This program has been approved by the farm board, which advanced a million dollars and promised another half million for its fruition. It had the approval of the treasury department before prohibition enforcement was switched over to the department of justice, and it is believed to have the general approval of the justice department, though details of a definite agreement are still being discussed between federal and industry representatives.

The grape industry is being entirely reorganized in the matter. Officials of Fruit Industries, Inc., have advanced the argument that home manufacture of wine, an "exciting" but not "intoxicating" beverage, has been considered legal, and that its expansion will promote national temperance and strike a hard blow at the traffic in intoxicants. They have urged their plan from the standpoint of public health and economy, promising they can guarantee a wholesome homemade product at a low cost of $1.25 a gallon.

They want permission to properly label and to advertise their product, and approval of representatives going into homes to supervise manufacture. The industry is already pledged to keep its fresh grapes out of bootleg channels.

Paul Garrett, New York and California wine and wine tonic manufacturer, who is chairman of the board of directors of Fruit Industries, Inc., and member of the grape control board, estimates that where one family in past years has used grapes for homemade wine ten in the future will make use of the easily handled grape concentrate. A considerable foreign market for the concentrate is also believed to exist.

Incidentally, it is said by persons who ought to know that the results of the processing are such that a leverage made of concentrate has, in a couple of months' time the bouquet of a three-year-old wine.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS

SHARON POTTS, THE GOOSE CRICK FERRYMAN, HAS BEEN PRETTY HARD HIT BY THE DROUGHT.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU

If August 19th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and 8 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 5:30 a. m. to 7 a. m. and 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

Astrological indications on this date are unfavorable until after 5:30 p. m. Do not take any unnecessary risks and avoid travel. Think twice before you sign your name to important papers. Formative plans for a possible change.

The child born on this August 19th will have an active, and often a little abrupt nature. It will be somewhat liable to vacillation, change and irresolution. Its judgment and memory should both be good. It will be overly excitable and will suffer from "nerves."

Very effeminate women and very manly men (he-men) will be born on an August 19th, and they will display the proper traits and characteristics of their sexes. If you be a man, you will live for your business or career, and a large percentage of your interests will be centered there. You will, however, go in for the ordinary recreations, sports and hobbies. You must either be hard at work, or equally engrossed or active in some game or amusement. You fidget when you have nothing to do, or nothing to see. Outside of the daily news, you are not much of a reader. You take a pride in your home, but you are not a handy man therein, and you do not want to be bothered with the details of its care. As a rule you are of a genial nature, although it is generally known that you cannot be run over. You have a naturally compelling manner, and you win respect and admiration without any effort.

If you be a woman, you belong in a home as a wife and mother. You have too much intelligence to fall in a career, but your proper place is within a home. You are so loyal and have so much devotion, that you will be married to your job, if not to a man. Your maternal instincts are very strong, and you must "mother" something or somebody. You have dainty, artistic tastes about yourself and surroundings, and you demand cleanliness and neatness. You dislike weak men, and you would expect your husband to be your lord and master. You are extremely affectionate.

BULLETIN
Neenah—The Gale II, D-35, owned by the Nye brothers of Delavan, and skippered by Harry Nye, came in first in the Class C division race on the Neenah course Monday morning. The Roken, L. F. owner by the Porter brothers, and skippered by Robert Porter of Lake Geneva, won the Class E race.

Handicapped by a low wind and a calm sea, the boats experienced considerable trouble in making the three laps in the nine mile classic in both divisions.

Second place in the Class C division went to the Fix III, I. L. owned and skippered by I. L. Eklund, Lake Geneva, while the O-Me-O-Me, II-7 owned and skippered by Charles Edwards, also of Lake Geneva came in third. The time was two hours, 15 minutes.

Second place in the Class E division went to the Wee II, S. L. owned and skippered by Joseph Quares, Jr., Pine Lake, while the Stuntant, X-5 owned by Albert Gallon, and skippered by Fred Meyer of Pine Lake, came in third.

The Phantom II, owned and skippered by James Kimberly, Neenah, came in eleventh in the Class E race. The time was two hours, six minutes and 45 seconds.

Neenah—The annual Inland Lake Yachting association regatta opened on the Neenah course on Lake Winnebago Saturday for a week with the usual invitation race, giving the skippers a chance to try out their boats and getting acquainted with the course.

The Class A boats raced in the afternoon in a strong northeast wind, giving ample breeze for the 17 boats entered. A bunch started was made toward the "Smilin' Through," owned and skippered by S. F. Shattuck of Neenah, taking the lead which it held until the last lap. Here it was passed by the "Silhouette," owned and skippered by Jack Kimberly of Neenah, who won the race from the "Yellow Jacket," owned by the Hill brothers of Lake Minnetonka, which was not entered in the race.

The "Smilin' Through," owned and skippered by S. F. Shattuck of Neenah, finished third and "Smilin' Through," fourth.

The morning was devoted to Class E and Class C races which were also sailed in a stiff northeast wind. In the Class E event the "Sis III," owned and skippered by L. L. Eklund of Lake Geneva, followed closely by "O-Me-O-Me," owned by Charles Edwards of Lake Geneva, and "Nuisance," owned and skippered by Bruce Adams, also of Lake Geneva. In the Class C event, "M II," "M 7" and "M 7," all of Lake Minnetonka, won first second and third places respectively. James Kimberly, with his "Phantom III," appeared headed for victory when something went wrong with one of the sails. He finished fourth.

The regular program of regatta races started Monday morning with Class E and Class C events, followed in the afternoon by Class A events.

SAIL FOR TROPHIES
Commodore James F. Bell has donated a perpetual challenge cup, "The Three Bells," for Class A boats, which race is being sailed Monday afternoon. The Tuesday trophy for Class A boats is the Bray cup. The Wednesday race in the Class A events will be sailed in the morning for the P. A. Valentine cup. This will be the only race of that class in the morning. All other Class A races will be sailed in the afternoon. Thursday's winner will receive the Commodore Dyer trophy. The winner of the Friday afternoon race will receive the Commodore Gilbert cup. The skipper winning the most races during the regatta will receive the Inland Lake Yachting association trophy. The same rule applies to the Class E and Class C winners.

There are several other trophies to be sailed for during the week. The Pine Lake Yacht club perpetual cup will be presented to the Class A winner who has the highest rating during the regatta. The Warren Carpenter cup will be given to the owner of the Class A boat which wins the regatta. The Pine Lake Yacht club perpetual cup for Class C skipper having the second highest rating during the regatta; the Pistakee Yacht club prize will be given the skipper of Class C boat winning the regatta for two years and the Pistakee trophy for Class E skipper winning the regatta for two years.

High Temperatures Affect Males More Than Females

Cold Springs Harbor, N. Y.—(AP)—Discovery that the female body stands high temperature better than the male has been made at Carnegie institution. The finding is said by its author, Dr. Oscar Riddle, to be an important part of the processes of nature that determined sex.

He finds that high temperature slows down male metabolism more than female. Metabolism is the production of energy. Ordinarily from youth to old age male metabolism produces more energy than female.

Dr. Riddle's discovery means that the male loses his margin of safety superiority when the temperature goes too high. It was disclosed in five years experimenting with ring doves and pigeons, and Dr. Riddle quotes experiments of several other scientists to show that it probably applies also to humans.

At 65 degrees the males showed an energy production of 3,361 calories; the females 3,749. When the temperature was raised to 86 Fahrenheit the male calory production dropped to 2,777, going lower than the female, which showed only 2,939. The decrease was 28.1 percent for the males and 29.3 for the females.

Dr. Riddle says the male, including man, has more red blood cells than the female and more of the red pigment that gives the color to blood. This pigment, hemoglobin, is the stuff that picks up oxygen in the lungs and carries it through the body. In ring doves and pigeons the excess red pigment of male is 7 to 9 percent.

"Upon and around such general conditions," says Dr. Riddle, "as higher level of tissue oxidations (use of oxygen) in the male, differential sex response to temperature and extra hemoglobin in the male blood, are suspended the vital functional levels of most or all the parts of the organism. These are the things that most directly determine the muscular and all other effort expended in respiration, the work of the circulatory organs, the regulation of heat loss, together with the level and degree of nerve action thus involved; directly or indirectly they calibrate the digestive work, secretory flow and excretory output."

"They are thus deeply vital, internal and functional things. They operate and persist during all stages of life. They are the various facts of basic metabolic difference—each stage of which is easily identifiable and measurable also as a sex difference. They constitute the primary sex difference."

Dr. Riddle says the metabolism differences should lead to better understanding of the work of those scientists who now fix at will the sex of some small animals before birth and of those who at will cause a change or reverse in some living things of very simple structure.

2,000 VISITORS AT FLOWER SHOW
Chairman of Awards Will Announce Prize Winners on Tuesday

Menasha—More than 2,000 visitors thronged the Menasha Memorial building during the two days of the first Menasha flower show sponsored by the Garden club. Under the direction of Miss Edna Robertson, the show attracted exhibitors and visitors from Menasha, Appleton, Neenah, Oshkosh, New Holstein and a number of neighboring cities.

A feature was the performance of the Menasha high school band in the park Saturday evening. All possible cooperation to the Garden club committees was extended by the Menasha park board, city officials and a number of Menasha business firms. The silver offering, voluntarily donated by spectators at the flower show, provided for show expenses and left a surplus for use in future work. Plans already are under way for a similar display in 1931.

Upon entering the Memorial building, spectators were confronted with large the containers filled with gold on glow, interspersed with golden red and wild flowers. On the second floor was a wealth of color and bloom made possible by artistic arrangements of hundreds of exhibits.

The exhibits of W. F. Greibach, August Elsping and Mrs. H. S. Smith attracted considerable attention and were awarded several prizes. Exhibits by a number of Menasha firms and a rock garden made by park employees and employees of Eric Bucholz, landscape artist, helped complete a display of flowers that extended throughout the building.

A complete list of prize winners will be announced Tuesday by Mrs. G. A. Loescher, chairman of awards. The judges made their decision by number and identification of names with the exhibits must be made before the list can be compiled.

Menasha—"Puggy" Dumbrowski's home run in the seventh inning of the Menasha Falcon-Wrightstown game at Menasha Sunday gave the Polish team a 5 to 4 victory over the invaders. There was no one on base when the centerfielder drove out the count blow.

Powell, on the mound for the Falcons, pitched a steady game but the score was knotted at 4 and 4 until the seventh frame with hitting scattered and scarce. Casey was on the receiving end of the Menasha battery.

The weekend was kind to the corn belt farmers, with more than an inch of rain fell in the last few days at Valentine, Neb., Keokuk, Iowa, and Fort Dodge, Iowa. Substantial showers were reported in most of the two states.

The withering tobacco crop of southern Wisconsin, the corn, wheat and potato fields of Minnesota and the Dakotas, all benefitted to an extent not easily estimated.

NATIONALISTS FORECAST END OF CIVIL WAR

Make Claims of Sweeping Victory on Battlefields of Northern China

Nanking—(AP)—Sweeping claims of victory on the battlefields of northern China caused high government circles today to predict the end of the civil war on terms dictated by the Nanking regime.

The optimistic forecast was made as the news of the recapture by nationalists of Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, and reports of capturing northern rebel armies in Honan province were finding avowal from fire to hot to withstand.

Recapture of Tsinan from the rebels was regarded in government circles as virtually re-establishing the nationalist position in Shantung. Nationalist authority in Shantung, Haichow-Tungkuang railway stated the rebel Kuomintang (national army) had begun a general withdrawal from eastern Honan.

While specific reasons accounting for the alleged Kuomintang retreat were not given, it was generally believed strengthening of the Nationalist in Shantung had made the rebels' position untenable in central and eastern Honan.

Government authorities said the rebels were not expected to make a stand east of Kaifeng, Honan capital. It was described as a difficult place to defend. The fall of Kaifeng into Nationalist hands was to be imminent.

EXPECT FURTHER RETREAT
Nationalists now profess to believe the Kuomintang will retreat into the mountain of southern Shansi province through the passes which for centuries have afforded avenues of escape for armies defeated on the plains of Honan.

Government officials predicted the rebels soon would be pushed northward of the Yellow river, enabling to dictate peace terms. In Shantung the Nationalists asserted they had advanced north to Tsinan, driving the rebels across the Yellow river capturing many.

Rebel forces along the Tsinan-Tsingtau railway also were said to be retreating toward the northern border of Shantung.

In the capture of Tsinan, Nanking leaders asserted, their forces had seized 30,000 rifles, 130 field guns and three airplanes. Fresh from this victory, President Chiang Kai-shek was said to be rushing planes to Honan for an offensive against the Kuomintang.

Nationalists also said they had ordered an advance against Chengchow, important city west of Kaifeng.

Communist disorders continued spasmodically in the Yangtze valley, with reds pillaging the smaller places. Their apparent disinclination to attack the larger cities other than Changsha has enabled the government to concentrate small bodies of troops in the major cities. This in turn has caused nationalists to circulate reports that the Communist menace had been controlled.

Nevertheless the reds are believed able to strike against almost any community in central and southern China and will continue to be in that position until the government can withdraw some of its troops from the northern civil war front for duty against the reds.

HOSPITAL MANAGER HELD FOR LAW VIOLATIONS
Chicago—(AP)—Robert E. Parks, manager of the Des Plaines Emergency hospital, arrested on charges of violating the state medical laws, was ordered to trial Aug. 22 when arrested today. He was released on $200 bonds.

Parks' arrest was secured by Frank Harmon, son of the late Paddy Harmon, Chicago sports promoter who died at the Des Plaines hospital from injuries suffered in an automobile wreck. Harmon said he was suspicious of the care given his parents after the accident and state authorities arrested Parks for practicing medicine illegally.

Investigation by state authorities disclosed Parks had previous brushes with the law in St. Joseph, Mich., in 1926 and two years later was sentenced to the Bridgeway here for practicing medicine illegally.

Relatives of other persons who have died at the Des Plaines institution are seeking an investigation of the hospital. Parks on arraignment denied he had practiced medicine there, but acted solely in his capacity as business manager.

BY DON CHRISTIANSEN
LEFTY ART BEHR, smooth working Appleton pitcher, won his own ball game in the seventh inning yesterday against the Neenah-Menasha Pals at Brandt park. Trailing on the short end of a 1 to 0 count, Behr came to bat in the seventh frame and drove a long, curving home run over the left field fence, scoring Schultz ahead of him and bringing the count to 2 and 1 where it stayed at the end of the game.

The Pals were a little slow in getting started Sunday, but were playing big league ball during the closing frames. Both pitchers were moving down opposing batters in one, two, three fashion and hitting was scattered and scarce. Until the seventh inning, all that brought the fans to their feet was Umpire Tusch's fifth inning decision on a play at first where he looked as though he might have recovered a bad throw from Mulry with plenty of time to catch Muench coming down from the plate.

Indications that Lefty was going to have a big day began in the first inning when he struck out Handler, lead off man for the Pals, and after Muench had filed out to Smith and Leopold had garnered a single, he repeated the strike out performance on Shleske.

GREEN BAY STRIKEOUTS

In the second frame, Weisgerber, the first man up drove a safety through the infield and Behr came back to retire the side by three straight strikeouts. Four more batters whiffed before the end of the tilt.

The Pals scored their only tally in the third inning when Handler drew a walk after Nixon's strike out and beat Murphy's throw to second. A moment later, Muench filed out to Torny, but Leopold was passed and Shleske met Behr's challenge with a single through the box scoring Handler and moving Leopold to second. Weisgerber rolled an easy grounder to Schultz for the third out.

The Collegians succeeded in getting on base five of their eight times at bat. In the first frame Bowers walked but was forced out at second on Smith's fielder's choice. Murphy singled, but Torny was passed and Shleske met Behr's challenge with a single through the box scoring Handler and moving Leopold to second. Weisgerber rolled an easy grounder to Schultz for the third out.

Again in the third Bowers walked but was thrown out on an attempted steal. Murphy and Torny were safe on an error and a walk but both were left on base as the side was retired. In the fifth, Eggert singled but failed to go further than first.

THE "LUCKY" SEVENTH

When the "lucky" seventh came along and the fans had all settled themselves after the customary stretch, Schultz started the parade with a free pass to first. He advanced to second when Mulry laid a perfect sacrifice bunt down the first base line and Behr came to bat. On the first ball pitched, the Appleton hurler drove a long homer over the left field fence, scoring Schultz ahead of him and bringing the count to two and one.

The Pals were held scoreless throughout the remaining two innings although they threatened both times at bat. In the eighth, Handler fouled out but Muench singled. When the first throw from Behr to Eggert was slow, Muench apparently thought the next ball would go to the batter and was caught off first base. Leopold singled down the third base line, but the side was retired when Shleske fouled out. In the ninth, a walk for Lewandowski and a single by Zenefski got Menasha exactly where Nixon grounded to Schultz for the final put out.

NICK CULLOP TIES BUNNY BRIEF'S AA HOME RUN RECORD

Ed Strelecki Back With Brewers; Wins from Indianapolis, 6 and 1

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO —(AP)—Nick Cullop, the Minneapolis sledge gun, today was half-owner of the American home run record and circumstances indicated he soon would become sole owner of the honor.

The Miller outfielder yesterday waited until last time at bat in a doubleheader against Toledo before he exploded his forty-second circuit wallop of the season off Elm Van Gilder, to tie the mark established in 1921 by Bunny Brief of the Kansas City Blues.

Cullop has about 40 games in which to get another homer and set a new record and at the pace he has been using, appears to be certain to beat 50.

Vernon Gomez and Huck Betts turned performances to boost St. Paul to two triumphs over Columbus, 3 to 2 and 4 to 3. Gomez held the Senators to eight hits in the opener and Betts gave up only seven in the second engagement.

Louisville trimmed Kansas City, 4 to 3, in the first game of their twin bill, but were shut out, 3 to 0, by Lou Fette, in the other affair. The Colonels outbatted the Blues, 7 to 6, but could not do a thing with Fette while men occupied the bases. American Polli and Ben Tincup collaborated in pitching Louisville to victory in the opener.

Ed Strelecki celebrated the lifting of his suspension, by hurling Milwaukee to 6 to 1, over Indianapolis in the first game of the doubleheader. Strelecki missed a shutout by the margin of a homer by Connolly, but gave only four hits in his comeback. He was suspended and fined last week by Manager Marty Berghammer of the Brewers. The Indians accomplished a triple play in the first inning of the game, but failed to stall off later Brewer attacks. Mike Cvangros duplicated Strelecki's performance, giving Milwaukee only four hits in the second game which Indianapolis won, 14 to 1.

Eddie Wingard took his turn at pitching yesterday and hurled Toledo to an 8 to 1 victory over Minneapolis in the first contest. Minneapolis gained an even break for the day by hammering Elm Van Gilder for 13 hits and a 9 to 2 decision.

ALL-STARS HANG UP ANOTHER VICTORY, 4-3

Appleton All-Stars won a 4 and 3 victory Sunday afternoon from the Bergstrom Paper company softballers, composed of the best talent in Neenah. The game was played at McKinley school grounds.

Mortel was on the mound for the Stars and gave three hits striking out eight batters. He was opposed by Don Hollenbeck who whiffed 14 batters but who gave five hits.

A rally in the seventh inning which brought three straight hits and two runs gave the Stars a win after trailing 3 and 2.

The Stars now are issuing a challenge to any team in Appleton or vicinity. In Appleton the squad would like games with the Machine company winners in the American league played last week, or the Brandts, champions of the National league.

Chicago — (AP)—Manager Joe McCarthy is still giving thanks to the Cubs' reserve department.

Lester Bell is the latest to jump into an emergency job and deliver Bell, obtained from the Braves with the idea of using him at third base, was hampered by a sore arm during the early part of the season and later found himself idle because Woody English, Clarence Blair and Doc Farrell were playing so brilliantly.

Bell was sent to first base yesterday to replace Charlie Grimm, who was spiked in the second game of Saturday's doubleheader with the Phillies. He did a good job of fielding and produced three singles, two of which drove in runs in a 5 to 4 victory.

GALLANT FOX WILL RUN IN SARATOGA CUP

New York (AP)—Carrying on in quest of the turf's all time money winning record, despite his surprising defeat by Jim Dandy in the Travers Saturday, Gallant Fox will run in the Saratoga cup on the closing day at the Spa and then keep his engagements at Belmont park in the Lawrence realization and the jockey club cup.

Although turned back by a rank outsider in his campaign to go through the current season undefeated and pass Zev's money-winning record, Gallant Fox still stands a good chance of achieving the latter aim.

Second in the Travers paid only 44,000 but it boosted the Fox's total earnings to $278,850. Each of his remaining engagements will have a value in excess of $25,000.

SEEMS THIS HURLER HAS HUNG UP MORE THAN ONE RECORD

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)— Gene Jones, young Springfield Three Eye league hurler, has one record they can't take away from him—the honor of pitching the first no-hit game in night baseball.

Jones last night defeated Decatur, 4 to 1, in the second game of a night doubleheader. He set some other kind of a record when he walked 15 men and still managed to hold his opposition to one run.

The achievement was also the first of the Three Eye season.

Giants Half Game Out Of Second Place In National League Race

John McGraw's Clan Has Won 22 Out of 32 Games in Last Month

BY HUGH S. FULLESTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NOTED for their strong finishes, the New York Giants have climbed into the National league pennant race.

The Giants were a half game behind the second place Brooklyn Robins and only three games behind the league leading Chicago Cubs after Saturday's games. The Giants won 22 out of 32 games in the last month.

They extended their straight winning streak to five games in the first half of yesterday's twin bill by pounding Wild Bill Hallahan of the Cubs and three successors for 17 hits and a 12 to 4 victory. A seven-run rally in the sixth settled the matter. Burleigh Grimes turned the tables in the second game and the Cards won 14 to 4.

CUBS, ROBINS WIN
Chicago and Brooklyn turned in single victories to gain a half game on the Giants and continue their race 23 games apart. The Cubs had difficulty with the humble Phillies but took advantage of their one opportunity when Earl Collard developed a streak of wildness in the eighth. The Cubs then scored two runs to win, 5 to 4. The loss of Charles Grimm, injured Saturday, did not prove serious as Lester Bell filled in with three hits in three times at bat and drove in two tallies.

The Robins played a home game against Pittsburgh and sent out Dazy Vance to entertain the Flatbush fans. He fanned nine and hurled an eight hit shutout. The score was 5 to 0.

The Boston Braves supplied Cincinnati fans with enough thrills for a week in a double header between two clubs buried deep in the second division. The Braves barely edged out a 4 to 3 victory in the first game, then won 13 innings in the nightcap, to win 9 to 7, as 37 players, eleven of them pitchers, strove for a victory.

WASHINGTON BEATEN
Washington's attempt to overhaul the Philadelphia Athletics in the American league pennant chase was halted yesterday after the Senators' sixth straight game. Detroit's Tigers staged an uprising in the first two innings and scored eleven runs to win by a 15 to 1 count.

Babe Ruth and Charley Ruffing gave the New York Yankees a ten inning victory over the Chicago White Sox, 8 to 7, in the first half of a double bill, but the Sox came back behind Red Faber's pitching to win, 6 to 1, in a second game which was stopped by rain after five innings. Ruth clouted his forty-fourth home run in the seventh inning to tie the score, then made the winning run in the tenth on Ruffing's pinch single.

With the Athletics and St. Louis idle, Cleveland made the day's only important American league gain and remained in fourth place nine and one-half games behind the Yankees. The Indians won both games from the Boston Red Sox with a pair of effective pitching feats. Willis Hudlin kept the Sox hits ineffective in the first clash to gain a 9 to 3 decision while Clint Brown gave only four blows in the seven inning second game to win by a 2 to 0 count.

MERCHANTS WIN TWO GAMES FROM MURPHY'S CORNER

Largest Crowd of Season Sees Bargain Bill at Wilson School Grounds

APPLETON Merchants strengthened their claims to first place in the Central Wisconsin league Sunday afternoon when they defeated Murphy's Corners in two games. The first battle ended 7 and 1 while the second was closer and ended 6 and 5.

The largest crowd ever to watch a Central Wisconsin league game, the Wilson junior high school crowd saw Sunday's game and rewarded with some clever exhibitions. Bedford, the Merchants' second baseman was the star of the game with several sensational stops that cut off Corners' runs, and one occasion started a double play.

The hitting stars of the game were Laabs and E. Helms for the Merchants and Schultz for the Corners. All three hit home runs.

Five runs in the first three innings gave the Merchants a big lead in the first game and they kept pounding away with the result a rally netted four runs in the fifth inning. The Corners also were scoring runs but only in single numbers.

A three run rally in the fourth inning put the Merchants out front in the second game. Lone run in the sixth and eighth innings for the game in the bag for the Merchants.

A NICE GIRL COMES TO TOWN
By Mayzie Greig

SYNOPSIS: From her country home Mary Lou Leslie comes to London to see Brynmor Whitmore. Last summer they had thought they were in love. Now Brynmor has fallen in love with Clarice Day, a dancer and his cousin's girl. "Too nice," He deserts her at a night club to see Clarice. The club is raided and Mary Lou escapes with a chance acquaintance named Tony. Furious at Brynmor, she vows to have a good time without him. Tony says he'll take her about if she will go with him to visit his aunt. From her cousin, Jay Jerome, Mary Lou is astonished to learn that Tony is a daring aviator, the scion of a wealthy family. Meanwhile Brynmor, irked because Mary Lou left him, decides to leave her to her own devices and devote all his time to Clarice.

Chapter 6
FREDDY MASON
BRYNMOR determined to walk home. He felt it wasn't worth-while to go to bed at all, since it was nearly four o'clock. The direct route to his digs led him past the house where Clarice had a flat. He remembered he hadn't seen her to say good-night. She, too, had managed to disappear when the raid had begun.

Clarice had an enigma, though she was sweet and divine. Why was she always so mysterious about her past? Now that their affair had gone so far, wasn't it only right that he should know everything?

Would he mind if the facts were slightly unpleasant? But how could anything connected with Clarice be unpleasant? Still, that faint uncertainty had kept him from making a definite proposal to her.

There was his father to consider, a retired army colonel living in Wales. Colonel Whitmore made him a generous allowance of 600 pounds a year, apart from what he earned in the brokerage office of a cousin. He had been working in town six months. Before then he had tried for a degree at Oxford and failed.

Of course he wouldn't dream of disturbing Clarice at this hour of the morning. Passing under her window, however, he saw that her room was a blaze of light. Perhaps she had just returned from the club. In that case, it would be the dearest thing to see if she was all right.

Half was up the stairs he paused abruptly. He fancied he heard a man's voice in Clarice's flat. He listened.

A minute later he was sure of it. The fellow, whoever he was, was speaking in loud angry tones. What was she doing with a man in her flat at that hour of the morning?

He pressed the bell. There was a long pause. Presently he heard Clarice's voice, and the sharp note of anxiety in it confirmed his suspicions.

"Who is there?"

"It is I, Brynmor, Clarice, dear. Is anything wrong?"

"Oh, Brynmor!" He fancied he heard her whispering to the fellow inside. The next moment she opened the door, smiling.

Conversation dragged. It soon became plain that each man was waiting for the other to leave. Brynmor was fagged if he would go and leave that chap in possession, cousin or not. Noticing how exhausted Clarice looked, however, he finally took the initiative.

"I suppose we'd better be pushing off, Mason, and leave Clarice to her beauty sleep. I'm going Piccadillywards. Are you walking my way?"

Freddy Mason said he was afraid Piccadilly wasn't his way, that he would stay a few minutes to talk over some things with Clarice, since he was in town so seldom.

"Not tonight, Freddy, please." Clarice murmured. "I'm too tired to talk any more now."

Brynmor fancied there was a suggestion of fear in her voice.

"In that case we can leave together, Mason," he said decisively.

He walked out briskly. Freddy didn't accompany him immediately. From the hall Brynmor could hear him talking in low tones to Clarice.

A few minutes later, when he stepped back to see if the fellow was coming, he overheard him say, "Remember, Clary, you've no alternative. You've got to consent."

Some minutes later both men left the house. They parted at a corner with forced cordiality. Brynmor walked on moodily toward his rooms.

Who was the fellow? What had he meant, saying to Clarice: "You've no alternative. You've got to consent?"

Tomorrow Mary Lou prepares for two weeks of excitement in London—without Brynmor.

NORTHERN PACIFIC BONDS GILT EDGED; LOW YIELD BASIS

Dividend Rate of $5 Annually Paid by Road Since 1922

EDITOR'S NOTE: (This is the thirty-first of a series of brief analyses by Mr. Hughes on railroad securities. The intent is not to recommend the purchase or sale of any particular stock but to give the investor such information as may enable him intelligently to chart his own course.)

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)
New York. — There is no question about the investment rating of Northern Pacific bonds. They are all so well secured and in normal years interest charges are covered by so wide a margin that they sell on a low yield basis and are held largely by financial institutions and investors who must have safety above everything else.

The immediate question of interest concerns the stock of which there is par value. On this stock the present dividend rate is $5 annually which has been paid since 1922. Prior to that time and back to 1909 the rate was $7, per share, the cut having been the result of decreased revenues in the post-war period. Like the other railroads the Northern Pacific has suffered from the current falling off in traffic. On the basis of reports for the first six months earnings available for the stock at the end of 1930 will be only around $6 a share which is not much of a margin above dividend requirements.

The Northern Pacific jointly with the Great Northern controls the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, which is a highly profitable property. The road is now paying an annual dividend of $10 a share which has been the rate for the past eight years. It is estimated the Burlington will earn around $14 a share this year so that it would be possible for the Northern Pacific and Great Northern to take a larger proportion of Burlington earnings in the form of dividends if they saw fit. In any case it is a fair presumption that with improvement in general business conditions there will be a turn for the better in the earnings of all three roads.

Meanwhile the project to merge the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern, which was approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the condition that these roads divest themselves of control of the Burlington, is in abeyance because of political opposition. In any appraisal of the investment status of the stock of either of the northern roads it is just as well to disregard the merger feature.

Hot production for the Pacific coast is estimated to be half of last year's. Acreage has been cut 40 per cent.

When Lindy Spoke to the Nation

The next few years will bring trans-oceanic air routes uniting continental services into a network covering the entire world. . . . And almost the entire world was to have listened in when, as pictured above, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh stepped before a microphone in New York and spoke over the greatest radio hook-up ever arranged for a private citizen. Atlantic storms, however, prevented Europe from hearing the broadcast of the famed aviator's address on aviation topics.

G. C. HELPS SPONSOR RETAIL INSTITUTE

The retail division of Appleton Chamber of Commerce is aiding in making plans for a retail institute to be held at the vocational school, Sept. 22, 23 and 24. Afternoon conferences of the institute will give retailers an opportunity to carry on consultations with instructors and speakers brought here for the conference.

Noon meetings will be for executives and service clubs will be asked to dispense with their meetings during the period so members may attend. The Lions club already has consented to postpone its meeting for the first day.

London — A 50-passenger monoplane is being built here and is expected to be finished by the end of the summer. It will be powered by six engines and will have a non-stop range of 2000 miles. The engines, it is said, will develop 5000 horsepower. They are being built by Rolls Royce.

300 FOUR-H CLUB MEMBERS TO TAKE PART IN PROGRAM

Rural Boys and Girls to Have
Whole Day at Fair at Seymour

More than 300 members of 4-H clubs in Outagamie county will gather at Seymour fair this week to take part in the programs there. The fair will be in progress Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday and Wednesday is 4-H club day.

It had first been planned to hold the 4-H club parade at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning but this was changed to 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon because Governor Walter J. Kohler will be a guest of the fair association at that time and he will view the parade.

Arrangements for the participation in the fair program by the 4-H clubs was arranged by Miss Harriet Thompson, county home demonstration agent, and Gus Sell, county agent. There are to be prizes for the best booths exhibited by club members; prizes for the best calves exhibited by boy members; prizes for the best crop displays; and prizes for the best demonstration work.

Demonstration teams, representing practically every club in the county, will show their skill all day Wednesday. This feature of the fair program has not yet been definitely completed but the schedule of demonstrations is to be announced Monday by Miss Thompson.

Another feature will be style show presented by girls from all the clubs. This will take place in front of the grand stand at 7:15 Wednesday evening. Girls, between the ages of 10 and 16 years, will exhibit the dresses and other articles of wearing apparel which they have made as a part of the club work. This feature of the program, Miss

WHAT YOU DO IN BUSINESS

In your business you do not aim to buy merchandise at peak prices . . . when the demand is greatest. You look for opportunities to beat the market . . . to buy at the low and to have plenty of goods on hand when demand is great. Why not provide your winter coal supply the same way. Buy now at the low summer prices and have your coal on hand when the other fellow has to pay peak prices.

"Pretty as a picture" . . . but 'B.O.' and summer heat kept admirers away

MONDAY — they met. Tuesday — a date. Wednesday — their romance was over. True, it was scorching weather. But that didn't excuse . . . body odor. And in a girl who looked so dainty!

Naturally people hesitate to mention such a personal matter, even under the polite term—"B.O." But finally a friend, an older woman, plucked up courage to tell her and suggest an easy way to avoid offending . . . What a difference it has made! Now she wins friends and keeps them — has "dates" galore. "B.O." and unpopularity are banished forever.

Perspiration can be kept odorless

Even on sultriest summer days when we perspire most, there's no need for even a trace of "B.O." But here's the thing to remember. Don't simply trust to luck that you won't offend. We never know when we do. We quickly become accustomed to an ever-present odor and don't notice "B.O." in ourselves. But others do—instantly!

Play safe. Adopt the delightful safeguard used by millions of particular men and women. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Lathers abundantly—even in hardest water. Rich, creamy, antiseptic lather that purifies pores—removes every trace of "B.O."

New complexion beauty

Work Lifebuoy's bland, creamy, deep-cleansing lather well into the skin. It's the finest kind of a "facial". Gently frees pores of clogged impurities—freshens dull skins—promotes radiant healthy beauty. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies!
